COLUMBUS SHOOTING

FURTHER FACTS IN THE CASE.

Both the Elliotts Shot Osborne, While Hughes Was Killed by a Bullet from W. J. Elliott's Revolver.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25.—The awful tragedy of Monday, in which W. L. Hughes and Al. C. Osborne lost their lives and five men were wounded, is the sole topic of conversation on the streets, in the hotel lobbies and in the saloons. While a few, who always have an "I told you so" story after an event of this character, now confidently state that they knew the newspaper war between The World and Capital would end in bloodshed, still the prevailing opinion all along has been that the main fight would be made through the respective newspapers.

Osborne, however, seemed to have a premonition of his impending fate. Monday morning he was down town, armed and watchful. He was also very nervous, and would start and glance over his shoulder at any unusual sound. He had heard reports that Bill Elliott was hunting him Sunday morning and laughing nervously said that Bill "knew where to find him if he wanted him very badly." After leaving Bott's saloon and restaurant, where Levering took dinner, he walked back to Schrader's. He was so nervous that "Squire McDonald advised him to take something to brace him up. He did so and stepped from the door. He had not been gone five minutes when the shooting occurred.

The United Press yesterday met a young man, J. W. Lincoln, who was an intimate friend of Al. Osborne, and from him learned that the deceased had momentarily expected death, and had made a final disposition of his possessions. On last week he made his will, and had spoken to this young man as to how he wished his remains cared for. "For," said he, when reproved for his levity, "I expect trouble with the Elliotts if we meet, though I cannot say just what kind." He ordered that this young man take his body from the corner as soon as through with it, and have it placed in charge of Tom Doonan, the undertaker—who by the way was Osborne's friend, and until a year ago, foreman on The Capital. He further desired that his body be taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Mason, and that later they be given interment at Reynoldsburg.

This conversation between Lincoln and Osborne took place last week. They again met Monday noon near Schrader's saloon, just after Osborne had been weighed on the scales and measured. Lincoln addressed him as follows: "Al, I guess we had better put that casket which we had for you back in its place, for you don't seem to need it." Osborne immediately answered: "This is straight goods and no joking. The day is not over, and I may need the coffin before night." With that the two parted.

There was a good deal of talk on the street yesterday regarding the course pursued by the police in not locking the two murderers in cells as soon as arrested. Chief Murphy was asked why this was not done. Said he: "I did not lock the Elliotts up for two reasons. First, the attorneys, reputable men at the bar, requested that they be taken to my office so that a consultation might be held, and second, I wished the reporters to secure all the facts and statements they could about the affair. I have often done this and would do it for any body if so requested in a case of this kind."

The police have established beyond a doubt that Bill Elliott fired the first shot and they think that both the Elliotts shot Osborne. It is impossible to see the prisoners without an order from the chief, this being given should any one have important business with the men. The outside and inside doors are locked so as to prevent trouble should a mob organize, as there have been threats of so doing.

At 10 o'clock yesterday the coroner, with Drs. Frank Warner, B. F. Wilson and J. F. Baldwin, began a postmortem examination upon the bodies of Editor Osborne and old man Hughes. It was shown that the bullet Osborne received in the head was from the revolver used by W. J. Elliott, and the one through his lungs from the revolver of his brother Patrick. It was also shown that the bullet which killed Mr. Hughes was from W. J. Elliott's revolver.

Clarence Reed, a young man living near Elliott's home at Arlington, says that Elliott was practicing with his pistol Monday morning. He saw him, he says, shooting at a target. At the conclusion of the practice he got into his buggy and drove toward the city.

Ed. Osborne has filed an affidavit against W. J. and P. J. Elliott, charging them jointly with murder in the first degree in the killing of A. C. Osborne. The affiant is the present mayor of Reynoldsburg and a brother of the deceased. He says he proposes to push the prosecution. In addition to Mr. Huling an array of distinguished and able lawyers will be employed to prosecute the case.

A large number of witnesses have been examined by Coroner Eagan in the inquest on the bodies of the two murdered men. Nearly all the witnesses swear that W. J. Elliott began the fusillade by firing upon Osborne, who stood with his hands in his pockets less than ten feet away, and that the first shot took effect in Osborne's chin. It was further testified that W. J. Elliott took refuge behind a woman and fired over her shoulder, and that at this juncture Hughes dropped dead. Osborne in the meantime retreated to the hat store followed by Pat, where he received his death wound in the heart.

FOR WILSON DEAD.

Maryland House of Representatives.

night at 10:00 in his apartments at the Hamilton House, of heart disease, in his 70th year. Mr. Wilson was in his seat in the senate chamber last Saturday apparently in good health, and the news of his death came as a shock to the community. He complained on Sunday and Monday, but his condition was not regarded as serious until late Monday night, when he had a sinking spell, but he revived, and Tuesday morning was thought to be out of danger. Later in the day he grew worse and hovered between life and death until about 10 o'clock at night, when he end came.

Philadelphia King Wilson ranked with the Bayards and Adams among our few elderly legislators. His father was long a lawmaker, serving in the house of representatives of the Twentieth and Twenty-first congresses, and the son has been almost continuously in office for over forty years. He was born at Snow Hill, Md., Dec. 22, 1821. After an academy course he entered Jefferson college, Pennsylvania, where he was graduated in 1841. Soon after he was admitted to the bar. In 1847 he was elected to the Maryland legislature, in 1852 was an elector on the Pierce and King ticket, served in the National house for the term of 1873-75 and has filled other offices. He was chosen to the United States senate in 1885, and was re-elected for the term to end in 1897.

The flames spread so rapidly that the employees were obliged to escape by ropes. In doing this John Taylor was badly and peria fatally burned. Nelson Young was also badly burned and Joseph Portin sustained a bad cut on his thigh by a fall from a rope.

Sparks from the burning building set fire to the lumber sheds of Edwards & Stevens across the river and the flames from this place were communicated to adjoining buildings. The loss in the village of Winooski is $30,000.

Business Houses Destroyed.

EDINA, Mo., Feb. 25.—A disastrous fire yesterday destroyed nearly the entire business portion of the town, causing a loss of $100,000. J. Brum & Son, general merchandise, $15,000; C. M. Brum & Company, grocers, $17,000, and J. Bishop, boots and shoes, $7,000.

Work of an Incendiary.

THE MCKINLEY BILL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—Judge Blodgett decided the case of Marshall Field & Company against John M. Clark, collector of customs, involving the validity of the McKinley bill. He said:

"The best disposition the court can make of the matter is to affirm the decision of the appraisers at New York and allow the case to go directly to the supreme court. I will say, however, that the court was much impressed with the chain of reason advanced by the appellant and it might be difficult for the argument to be met by the other side. However, the McKinley bill has become the operating mechanism by which the government collects its duties and an adverse decision in this case might seriously disarrange the existing arrangement of this service. There should be a finding of facts that this court found the case of sufficient importance to warrant an appeal to the supreme court."

An appeal will be prayed at once.

SUIT AGAINST A RAILROAD.

A Number of Cars Attached on the Toledo and Hocking Valley Line.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 25.—Fletcher and Churchman, bankers, yesterday filed suit in attachments against the Toledo and Hocking Valley railroad company, and several of the company's cars were stopped here and are now in the hands of the sheriff. Writs have been sent to the northern part of the state and it is the purpose to stop every car belonging to the company that can be caught in the state.

The banks claims that the company is indebted to it in the sum of $140,000 under a contract with the defunct Indianapolis car works, the bank having cashed the company's paper, then in the hands of Millard. The steps taken yesterday were for the purpose of forcing the company to defend the suit in this state.

Secretary Foster Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—When the nomination of ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, to be secretary of the treasury, with the favorable recommendation of the finance committee was read in the secret session of the senate yesterday, a western senator said that in preventing immediate consideration of the nomination Monday by having it referred to the committee, the usual custom, he had acted at the request of "a senator," who seemed to have some reason for not wanting immediate action. He had no further objection to make, and would not have made objection on Monday had he not been requested to do so. The nomination was then confirmed.

Was There a Silver Pool?

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The special house committee charged with the investigation of the silver pool met yesterday for the first time in two weeks and examined Senator Jones, of Nevada. THREE DAYS' STORM.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—Three days of storm have done almost unprecedented damage to California railroads and paralyzed travel in nearly all directions. The Central Pacific is the only line running on time. The greatest damage was done in southern California and Arizona. In Soledad canon, near Los Angeles, the entire track was swept out for 200 feet. More than a dozen bridges are gone near Los Angeles.

On the Atlantic and Pacific washouts are very bad and several bridges are gone. On the Colorado desert the Southern Pacific has sustained heavy damage. A Conflict Between Strikers and Non-Strikers Narrowly Averted.

SCOTTSDALE, Pa., Feb. 24.—A conflict between the strikers and non-strikers at the coke plants near Dawson was narrowly averted yesterday. A crowd of 5,000 strikers came down to get the men in the Frost Hill, Paull, and Rainey plants to stop work. Many of the strikers in liquor and most of them were armed. The employees at work at the mines fled precipitately upon the approach of the mob. No actual conflict occurred.

At a mass meeting yesterday the 700 coke workers of the Loyalhanna, Unity, Monastery and other Latrobe works were ordered to strike.

The Frost Hill and Paull plants of W. J. Rainey are still running. The works are heavily guarded by Pinkerton men.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1891.

How the Pension Office is Run.

Pension Commissioner Raum, acting under orders from Secretary Noble, recently issued a notice stating that "any attorney or agent who claims that he has special advantages over others prosecuting in this office makes a statement that is without foundation and simply for the purpose of securing business. He also gave notice that "no attorney or agent has a right to examine the papers in a pension claim in the office in which he is not an attorney."

Now, Mr. Raum has two sons, one of them his Chief Clerk and the other (John) a pension attorney, and appearances are mighty deceiving if the law is not running the office for all there is in it. Commenting on the above notice and some recent developments the National Democrat says:

"When he prints his father's name on his own letter heads, or solicits pension business on his father's letter paper he undoubtedly does it for the purpose of securing business; but we are disposed to acquit the thrifty son of a more thrifty father of soliciting business under false pretenses; is it not a fact, as John Raum wishes it to supposed, that he has special advantages over others prosecuting in this (the Pension) office, which advantages consist in his being the son of the Commissioner and the brother of the assistant chief clerk. As testimony bearing on this point take the following from the New York Herald a few days ago:

"The intended victim is a soldier's widow in a destitute condition. She applied for a pension recently under the dependent pension act, passed by Congress last July.

"Her case was taken up by a gentleman who wrote to the Commissioner of Pensions at Washington in her behalf. Her application for a pension was duly made out and forwarded to the Commissioner.

"Thus she became her own attorney and no other agency was requisite. The mails brought to the friend of the petitioner a communication from John Raum, a son of General Green B. Raum, the Commissioner of Pensions. It requested that the soldier's widow should sign the power of attorney and return it to him and her name would be put on the special list, which is designed to accelerate the claims of the dependent and needy among the applicants.

"The letter from John Raum, who is a regular pension agent," said Almoner Jackson, "was addressed to another party and I wasn't slick enough to hold it, but in a day or two I may be able to learn more about it.

"The agent offered for the legal fee of $10 to collect her claim upon her return of the power of attorney. I told the woman not to do anything of the kind, not to be shanghaied into sending any money. Why should she give that money to anybody for writing her name? If she is allowed the pension, why she needs it all. As for getting the name on the special list for poor and needy defendants, I can do that without any outside assistance, and without expense to her.

"I do not know how Agent Raum found out about the widow's application. Of course, I have nothing to do with that end of the matter."

"Neither do we know," observes the Democrat, "how Agent Raum found out about the widow's application, but with a father in the Commissioner's office and a brother in the chief clerk's office, we can readily understand why he is able to get information that other claim agents are unable to get. We should, however, like to know whether Father Raum holds back certificates until Son Raum has had a chance of extorting $10 for no service at all. And yet Raum seems to be about the sort of man President Harrison likes."

As we remarked at the start, appearances are mighty deceiving if this precious trio are not working the pension office for all in sight. There are thousands of cases and it looks like John Raum has a bonanza. And the President winks at such doings as are detailed above.

The Pension office seems to be a private snap for Raum and sons.

HON. C. M. CLAY, JR., an aspirant for gubernatorial honors, says he is neither "a sub-treasury candidate," nor "a farmers' candidate," but a straight-out Democrat. This is a little more to the point than his talk a week or so ago.

THERE were 1,123,895 children of school age in Ohio last year and the average expenditure for school purposes amounted to $3.10 for each person in the State. There were 25,156 teachers employed in the common schools and their salaries ranged from $27 a month in elementary schools to $80 a month in high schools. Kentucky teachers fare about as well as the Buckeyes in point of salaries received.

THE National Democrat sifts the matter down to a fine point in the following. It says: "The Democratic party will give the country real reciprocity in commerce and not a sham; it will give every man a chance, and not give one man a chance at the expense of another, and will make it possible for American ship owners to do a profitable business, instead of hiring them with public money to do an unprofitable business."

"ALLEGED CRUELTY."

Editor Bulletin: I notice in the last issue of the Maysville Republican an article headed "Alleged Cruelty," which in some respects is calculated to do me injustice, and is certain to be widely circulated and grossly exaggerated by those malicious people who have personal reasons for desiring to complain of my management as Superintendent of our noble charity, the Mason County Infirmary. It is an institution of which our county may well be proud, and I myself feel a conscious sense of duty well done in every respect since I have administered the very delicate and responsible trust which the Magistrates of Mason County honored me by placing in my hands. I recognize the fullest right of newspapers and of citizens to fully examine and freely comment upon my whole conduct in every way as a public official. And I freely challenge the most perfect investigation and scrutiny, not only upon the part of the Board of Examiners, but all and any citizens of the county, especially those who have friends or relatives confined to my official care. I have myself solicited an examination on the part of the Board of Directors of any reports concerning my conduct to the inmates of the infirmary. It is right hard, however, to be judged by the common gossip and scandal which must necessarily be expected from the lips of refractory inmates of such an institution and those who encourage and abet them. Meanwhile I only ask a suspension of judgment until an exhaustive investigation is had and a report made, and that until this is done neither the press or people should engage in the promiscuous circulation of anonymous and irresponsible gossip about my management of the institution—myself or my family in connection therewith—and that if I am in anywise to blame, some responsible party should take it in hands and make definite charges against me. Meanwhile I confidently refer to all officers connected with the institution, the directors, the employees, the inmates, to the ministers of the Gospel who hold services there and to all who have ever visited the place during my superintendency—especially the kind ladies who have contributed to the comfort of the inmates—and I invite any and all to visit the place and examine for themselves whenever their convenience suits them. Respectfully,
JOHN RYAN,
Superintendent Mason County Infirmary.

If you have any money you had better keep it at home, or at least steer clear of "boom" cities. The simple fact of the matter is, this "boom" business has been overdone, and the collapse that will soon take place will leave many a fellow poorer, but, we trust, much wiser.

H. M. Carpenter, of Bourbon County, returned this week from Rockwood and Cardiff, Tenn., and he says the latter place is the dearest on earth. He reports Rockwood little better.

Another party who has been down there told a similar story to a gentleman of this city.

Of course, there are exceptions to all rules, and there may be a few cities down there where investments might pay. But the safe plan is to keep your money at home and place it in some legitimate business. There is something to build on here, and several manufacturing industries heretofore alluded to would prove profitable from the start.

LAST November, Charles Page, Democratic candidate for Congress in one of the districts in Rhode Island, received a plurality only over his Republican opponent, and there was no election. A special vote to fill the vacancy was ordered and it resulted in a majority of nearly 6,000 for the Democrats. The Republicans are beginning to admit at last that "Little Rhody" is a doubtful State.

SEVERAL years ago Chamberlain & Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, commenced the manufacture of a cough syrup, believing it to be the most prompt and reliable preparation yet produced for coughs, colds and croup; that the public appreciate true merit, and in time it was certain to become popular. Their most sanguine hopes have been more than realized. Over three hundred thousand bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy are now sold each year, and it is recognized as "the best made," where ever known. It will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment. For sale by Power & Reynolds, druggists.

Among the recent patents intended for a limited section of the community is a watch hand remover for watch making work. Two metallic strips are compressed and nip the watch hand, while a pin is pressed down on the centerpost of the watch, and a slight relaxation of the hand lifts the watch hand off the post. This device prevents all danger of cracking the dials, breaking the centerpost and losing the watch hands, and however tight the hands are fastened they are readily removed.—New York Telegram.

Few persons in the present age are wedded to the doctrine that the less a woman knows the better housekeeper she becomes. The reverse, as a rule, is true. In no department in life, outside the laboratory, are chemistry and philosophy demonstrated more practically than in the kitchen, and what pleasure to the housekeeper to witness these facts!—Good House-keeping.

STORY OF AN EBONY CASKET.

It Contains a Document That Means a Good Deal to One Married Couple.

In the dressing room of a happy married woman who lives in a Madison avenue mansion there stands in a conspicuous corner a small ebony casket with silver trimmings. It is locked and has not been opened for ten years. Few know its history, which is one full of romance and also of food for reflection for those on whom the marriage yoke bears heavily.

A little over ten years ago the occupants of this home were married. The wife had been brought up in a luxurious home and was a member of gay social circles. The husband was equally rich in worldly possessions, but with no liking for the round of society's pleasures. His young bachelorhood had been passed in independent club life and the sober enjoyment of his books and pictures, for which he had a strong taste. The honeymoon was barely over before a speck of discontent appeared on the horizon of their lives. It grew rapidly and soon obscured the sun of their wedded happiness. They mutually fretted under the strain of the marriage bonds. He disliked to be dragged to receptions and balls, and she chafed over his library inclinations and wanted to keep the house gay with guests and incessant going and coming.

At last the explosion came, and after a full and free discussion it was mutually agreed that they should separate. As there were no legal grounds of divorce in this state they journeyed together beyond the Ohio and consulted counsel. The laws of the west would give what each wanted—a decree. They remained away long enough to acquire statutory residence, and on a certain day a decree was duly granted severing the marital chains. The lawyers in handing each a copy of the decree explained to them that, although granted by the court, it would not take effect and was so much waste paper until entered and filed in the clerk's office of the county where the court was held.

The lawyers' fees were paid and each took the parchment. Both felt free and independent, but each hesitated to put the final seal to the transaction. By a common decision arrived at separately it was settled to return to New York, whence the decrees could be mailed for proper filing.

The return trip was on the same train. A conversation arose on the subject of their changed relations. Their newly acquired freedom put a different phase on the discussion. Explanations and expressions of opinion were more tolerant in the face of restraint removed. Concessions, which a false dignity prevented hitherto, were now broached as possible had they remained man and wife. In the end it was discovered that it was not the tie itself which was galling and unbearable, but the fact that it was a tie, binding fast and permanently.

The separation never took place. The decrees were locked in the casket, to which each carried a key. At first the casket stood in the husband's library, but as years went on occasional questions about it became irksome. It was sent up stairs to the wife's room, who in her turn tired of it, and it was tucked in a corner of the dressing room. But it still exists, and there are those who will say that it holds in its possibilities of freedom the unalloyed happiness of that home.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

A Man with a Pet Whale.

On a small island in the middle of the South Pacific lives a planter, the only white man on the island—who is full of brown skinned folk—who cuts and dries the meat of cocoanut, which he sells to trading vessels. When any stranger stops at his island he gives him of the best that the island affords. He will get up great concerts and dances of the islanders, above all he will take them out to see his pet, which is perhaps the largest and oldest animal that was ever petted by any man. The pet is a sperm whale nearly seventy feet long. He came through the narrow entrance into the little harbor, which is walled in by a coral reef, when quite small, and remained until he had grown so large that he could not get out if he wanted to. The great creature comes up to be fed when the planter blows his horn, and after his meal of a barrel of chopped meat or fish, performs some wondrous and amusing tricks, apparently knowing what is expected of him.—Sheffield Telegraph.

A Pigeon at Sea.

Messages by homing pigeons are unavailable at sea. Sea birds, however, have sometimes been used with good effect. In 1845 Capt. Farley, of the Ann Baldwin, saw a Cape pigeon flying around his vessel with a piece of wood dangling to its leg. The bird was caught, and there was found written on the wood, "Brig Camana, J. Hoodless, commander, latitude 58 degs. south, longitude 68 degs. west." On the reverse side was: "Allow the bearer to pass. May, 1845." The Camana herself afterward arrived at Arica, where the Ann Baldwin lay at anchor, and Capt. Hoodless at once identified his message.—Chambers' Journal.

Watch Hand Remover.

Among the recent patents intended for a limited section of the community is a watch hand remover for watch making work. Two metallic strips are compressed and nip the watch hand, while a pin is pressed down on the centerpost of the watch, and a slight relaxation of the hand lifts the watch hand off the post. This device prevents all danger of cracking the dials, breaking the centerpost and losing the watch hands, and however tight the hands are fastened they are readily removed.—New York Telegram.

Housekeepers Need Education.

Few persons in the present age are wedded to the doctrine that the less a woman knows the better housekeeper she becomes. The reverse, as a rule, is true. In no department in life, outside the laboratory, are chemistry and philosophy demonstrated more practically than in the kitchen, and what pleasure to the housekeeper to witness these facts!—Good House-keeping.

Heart Beats After Decapitation.

In a criminal lately beheaded in France the beats of the heart were noted during more than six minutes, and experiments were made to demonstrate the independence of the ventricular and articular contractions. This is the first time such observations were ever made on man.—Current Literature.

Dancing.

From time immemorial dancing has formed one of the chief amusements of mankind. Repeated mention is made of it in Holy Writ, and among the ancient Egyptians it constituted a very prominent and popular religious rite. Without a doubt the Israelites gained their knowledge of it during the days of their captivity in the land of the Pharaohs. The Greeks of the olden time indulged in war dances, chief among which was one that became famous under the name of the Pyrrhic dance. In this the dancers depicted the actions of a warrior engaged in doing battle, the quick and agile movements being made to the accompaniment of a flute. There were, we are told, 200 different dances in vogue among these Greeks. In ancient Rome dancing was one of the chief features of the magnificent fetes for which the empire became so famous.—Detroit Free Press.

Did They?

There is nothing much more distressing than an unfinished story. A number of people in a London drawing room were conversing about capital punishment when a lady remarked:

"How strange it must seem to be sentenced to death!"

"Not so very, very strange, I assure you. I was myself once condemned to death in Africa," said a returned African explorer.

"Indeed!" exclaimed the lady. "And were you—did they?"

"Did they what, madam?"

"Why, did they execute you, you know?"

Fashions For the Fair.

Large sleeves of net will be worn in silk dresses, with a tablier of the same for the skirt, and a pretty drapery of it from the shoulders to the point of the bodice.

Many of the new basques show a change from the general fashion of invisible fastenings, and button down the immediate front, the button holes edged with cord like that on the basque or slashed hip pieces. The popular spring basque consists of a very long seamed round waist, to which, in an arching seam, are applied two or three basques or Louis XIV. hip pieces. These basques are not lined with crinoline, but merely faced underside with surah or silk and trimmed with passementerie, brading or cording, and expensive buttons.

Louisville Tobacco Market

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 4,299 hds., with receipts for the same period of 3,773 hds. Sales on our market since January 1st amount to 24,968 hds. Sales of the crop of 1890 on our market to this date 12,088 hds.

We are again enabled to report immense offerings on our market for the week just closed. The market at times fluctuated and was a little irregular on the common and medium grades of new burley, but no decided decline has occurred on any grade of tobacco, and the better grades continue to command high figures. The offerings of old burley have been quite liberal in the past few weeks, and the stocks of such have been very much reduced. Should the present range of values be sustained and the weather conditions remain favorable for handling the crop, the first few months of the year will witness the marketing of a much larger per cent. of the crop than is usual.

DEATH OF M B McKRELL

He Passed Away Last Evening After a Lingered Illness from Pneumonia

The dark Angel of Death has been busy in this city and vicinity the past few days, and another one of Maysville's citizens was called away last evening.

Mr. M. B. McKrell, the dry goods merchant, breathed his last at a quarter to seven o'clock, at his rooms on Sutton street. He was taken down a few weeks ago with an attack of the "grip" which developed later on in a severe case of pneumonia. A week or more since his condition became very critical and his physicians and relatives realized then that there were but slight hopes of recovery. He lingered until last evening when the end came at the hour named.

Mordica Burgess McKrell was forty years of age last Sunday. He was born at Mayslick, and was the son of James McKrell, who crossed "the dark river" several years ago.

The mother of the deceased survives him, her home at present being in Cincinnati. He leaves seven sisters, among them, Miss Mollie McKrell and Mrs. J. W. Evans, of Ripley; Mrs. J. H. Fillmore, of Cincinnati and Mrs. Ballard, of Anderson, Ind. Another sister is the wife of a merchant at Memphis, and the two others reside at Los Angeles, Cal.

Deceased spent most of his life in this city. For several years he had been engaged in the dry goods business. Of a clever and kind-hearted disposition, he won a wide circle of friends who will sincerely regret to learn the sad news of his death. His remains will be taken to Mayslick to-morrow, leaving here at 10 a. m., and laid to rest by the side of those of his father. The funeral services will be held in Mayslick Christian Church and will be conducted by Rev. C. S. Lucas.

ANOTHER DEATH.

Mr. Mark Brannon, whose critical illness was noticed some days ago, died last evening at 7:30 o'clock at his home near Lewisburg. He had been suffering several weeks from some disease of the kidneys.

Deceased was forty-one years of age, and spent his life in the vicinity where he died. In his death, Lewisburg precinct loses one of her most successful farmers and stockmen. He was a good citizen and will be missed in that neighborhood. His father died a year or so ago, but his mother, four brothers—John, Thomas, James and Michael—and two sisters—Mrs. Patrick Collins and Mrs. Michael Coin—survive him.

The funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church. Burial at Washington.

Railroad News.

Superintendent L. Hood, General Freight Agent Brent Arnold, Master Mechanic L. R. Tuggle and Roadmaster W. J. Wash, all of the K. C., were here on the pay-car on its monthly trip.

The report got out a few days ago that the new owners of the Kentucky Central had discriminated against Maysville in arranging its freight rates. It was said that Cincinnati and Louisville could actually put goods in Carlisle and Millersburg cheaper than could be done by Maysville. This had a tendency to make our merchants red hot, and they were not to be blamed for getting mad. But it turned out that there was no truth in the report. Instead of being higher, the rates are really lower than under the old card.

PISGAH ENCAMPMENT's goat is going to be kept rather busy for awhile. At the meeting Monday night two candidates were elected to receive the Patriarchal degree, and three petitions were received. THE funeral of Miss Maggie Collins takes place this afternoon at two o'clock, after which the remains will be interred at Washington. She died Monday night at her home on Front street, after a lingering illness from consumption. Deceased was twenty-one years of age, and came here from Iowa two years ago. She was a niece of Mrs. John Gleason of East Second street.

ONE of the largest sales of real estate ever made in this city will be held Thursday, March 5th, at which time all the property of Frank W. Armstrong will be sold at public auction. It consists of that large vacant lot just east of the residence of W. H. Cox, extending from Second to Third, fronting on Second about 66 feet and on Third 150 feet; also the house in the "Brick Row" on Third occupied by Judge Thomas R. Phister; also the large lot and brick residence on northwest corner of Third and Sutton and the block of buildings north of same on Sutton street. All this property is located in the most central and desirable part of the city. It is sold by decree of court for investment of its proceeds in property in another city, where Mr. Armstrong resides, and the title of the purchaser will be perfect. It will be sold on usual time and in lots to suit purchasers.

Advertisers and Advertising.

Franklin said: "If a man can do business he should let it be known." Modern commercial history has shown that a man can not do business unless he does "let it be known." The newspapers are full of instances of men who "let it be known" and do business. The bankrupt courts are full of instances of men who failed to "let it be known" and failed to do business.

"Vox populi, vox dei." The best daily newspaper is "the voice of the people" the world over. If you want to sound your advertising the world over, use the voice of the people. Everybody that reads a magazine reads a daily newspaper. Hundreds of thousands of people who read the daily newspapers never see a magazine of any kind. Magazine advertising that's worth having is the highest-priced in the world; newspaper advertising, for intrinsic value, is the cheapest. —Courier-Journal.

INTO THE SOUDAN.

England Believed to Contemplate Such an Advance.

NO SMALL UNDERTAKING.

Lord Salisbury's Present Force in Upper Egypt Entirely Too Small to Accomplish Anything Unless Greatly Assisted by the Khedive's Troops—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Notwithstanding the qualified denial of Sir James Fergusson, there is a general belief that Lord Salisbury's government meditates an advance into the Soudan, with the view of reconquering that vast region for the khedive and for England. The force at present engaged in upper Egypt is very small, and consists largely not of Egyptians, but of native Soudanese troops under British officers, including Col. Holled Smith, Capt. Beech, of the Twentieth Hussars and Capt. Besant. As Sir James Fergusson truly says, this force is not strong enough to more than occupy Tokar, but England could not and would not prevent the khedive from sending a much larger native force, under British commanders, into the Soudan. The Soudanese troops are magnificent fellows, mostly at least six feet, and of great strength. A dispatch says that the wiry but weaker Dervishes could not stand a moment before them when it came hand to hand.

Treaties Agreed To.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—A Vienna dispatch says that the treaty negotiations between Austria and Germany are nearly concluded, but the draft of the convention will be kept secret until laid before the parliaments of Germany, Austria and Hungary in the autumn. Meanwhile it is said the governments of the two empires will enter into treaty negotiations with other countries, taking the Austro-German convention as a basis, and all the treaties will be submitted together.

African Slave Girl Murdered.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—From Zanzibar comes the news of a horrible murder committed by a German named Raddatz upon an African slave girl whom he got into his possession. The girl belonged to the Swahili tribe. Raddatz brutally murdered the girl in a bath room and buried parts of the body on the beach in the neighborhood of his house. The dwelling, on being searched, afforded ample evidence of the crime. Raddatz will be tried by the German authorities.

Effect of the McKinley Bill in Italy.
LONDON, Feb. 25.—According to a dispatch from Rome the silk trade of Italy showed a decrease of eighty-three millions of lire during the year 1890. It is alleged that this is partly due to the American McKinley bill. If this is true, Signor Crispi's repeated assertion that the McKinley bill did not hurt Italy seems to have been ill-founded. The present cabinet claim to be making other fiscal discoveries that will surprise the Italian people.

Tracing Stolen Notes.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Some of the £12,000 in Bank of England notes stolen by sneak thieves on the 16th inst., from a bank messenger in the office of the National Provincial bank, this city, have been traced to Queenstown, from which fact it is inferred that the two men who accomplished the robbery have sailed for America. The police believed at the time of the theft that the criminals were American experts.

Two Severe Defeats.

MASSOWAH, Feb. 25.—The Italian native levies, commanded by Capt. Rinelli, have inflicted two severe defeats on the Soudanese. Six hundred Soudanese raided the frontier of the Italian territory near Burri, in revenge for alleged injuries. The Italian native force surprised them, routed them after two sharp conflicts and killed 200, including several chiefs.

Cardinal Gibbons Not Summoned to Rome.
ROME, Feb. 25.—The statement published in Italy yesterday that Cardinal Gibbons had been summoned to Rome for a conference on church questions in the United States is denied in Vatican circles. It is also stated that there is no question pending which would require his presence in Rome. Two bishops from the United States are expected here at Easter.

Probable Fatal Accident.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—First Admiral Sir Geoffrey Thomas Phipps Hornby, K. C. B., was thrown from his trap yesterday at Havant, near Portsmouth, and sustained concussion of the brain. He has been insensible since the accident, and doubts are entertained of his recovery. He is 66 years of age.

Protection of Child Wives.

BOMBAY, Feb. 25.—At a meeting yesterday about 4,000 Hindoos of various castes being present, it was resolved that it was necessary to have a law which would enable the authorities to interfere in protection of child wives. The resolution was adopted amid much enthusiasm.

Another Strike in Glasgow.

GLASGOW, Feb. 25.—Owing to the dismissal of a number of employees belonging to a trades union from the Glasgow establishment of the Singer Sewing Machine Works company, about 300 of the employees went on a strike, seriously obstructing the output of the works.

A Big Strike Ordered.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The stevedores' union men, numbering 5,000, have been ordered by their council to strike tomorrow. The step is supposed to be taken as a means of compelling other labor unions to declare themselves.

Thousands of Looms Idle.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Stagnation is spreading to an alarming extent in the weaving industry of East Lancashire. Ten thousand looms and 3,000 operatives are idle in Blackburn alone.

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 25.—An exodus of negroes for Oklahoma from Arkansas is in progress. Monday night one hundred left Pulaski county, via Texarkana.

BRIGHT WRECK.

Five Oil Tanks, Four Freight Cars and Four Engines Destroyed.

ASHLAND, Pa., Feb. 25.—A disastrous wreck occurred on the Reading road near Gordon station at 7:30 yesterday evening, completely demolishing five oil tanks, four freight cars and four powerful engines. A coal train started out from Locust Summit, and when a short distance this side of Larry a coupling broke, causing a split in the train. A flagman was sent out to stop approaching trains, while the coal engine proceeded to Gordon. Following the coal train came three empty engines, and the road being blocked by the cars ahead, they had to await their removal.

The flagman of the third and rear engine was sent back the road to flag another train following. He had not gone far when the freight came in sight. He gave the warning, but owing to the heavy grade, the train was unable to slack off and went crashing into the three engines and cars. The wreck immediately took fire, and a few minutes later the five oil tanks exploded, throwing the debris in every direction. The engineer of the freight and several of the crew were badly bruised, though not seriously injured by jumping from their train. The loss to the company is estimated at $150,000.

OHIO FLOOD.

Not Much Further Rise Expected at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 25.—From all appearances the river is about at its worst, and while it is rising slowly now, it is expected to come to a final stand within a few hours reaching nearly fifty-eight feet. It is falling at Pittsburgh and at several places below.

It is peculiarly fortunate for the dwellers in the inundated regions that the weather is moderate, and it can be said of this flood that it caused but little, if any, suffering. The slow advance has given ample warning, and people have not in any instances been surprised by the waves. The associated charities have men out taking care of the needy, and taken all in all, the flood may be said to have enjoyed a comparatively pleasant visit to the Queen City. The East End has had the worst of it, but no houses have been overturned, and all the damage that has been done is merely a soaking and muddying of houses.

Buried Under Tons of Brick.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25.—A few minutes after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the rear wall of the old Excelsior building, corner of Federal and Lacock streets, Allegheny, caved in, completely burying Park Romack under several tons of debris. John Ross and Robert Jackson, who were at work in a tin shop adjoining the Excelsior building, were slightly injured by falling debris. The firemen and police patrol were put to work removing the brick and mortar, and at 2:40 o'clock Romack's body was recovered. He was 18 years of age. His neck was broken. The Excelsior building was burned out a month ago. The walls, although in a dangerous condition, were permitted to stand.

Decision in the Brice Tax Case.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 25.—In the case of the State of Ohio in relation of Morganthaler versus C. D. Crites, auditor of Allen county, it was decided by the supreme court in favor of the plaintiff yesterday morning. This is the case in which the county seeks to recover a large sum of back taxes alleged by the tax inquisitor to be due from Senator-elect Brice. Under the decision omitted taxes amounting to several thousand dollars will have to be paid.

Bridge Wrecked.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Feb. 25.—The great pontoon bridge spanning the Missouri river at this point parted at the draw about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The big draw cables parted, leaving the draw close into the east bank wrecking and sinking six or seven pontoons. The wind is blowing hard and river rapidly rising and it is feared the entire bridge will be wrecked. The damage will reach close to $10,000.

Express Agent Sandbagged.

CANTON, O., Feb. 25.—Late Monday night Edward Callahan, the Adams express agent at Salem, was sandbagged, while returning home from his office, and left insensible. The robbers then returned to the office and rifled the safe of $200 and several watches. Callahan's injuries are severe, but he may recover. There is no clew.

Mail Bags Stolen.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Feb. 25.—Four mail bags were stolen from a truck in the Union depot yesterday evening. Only one pouch contained letters. The theft was not discovered for several minutes, during which time the robber made his way to a yard in the rear of the depot, where he cut open the sacks. He then escaped in the darkness. The amount stolen is not known.

Prize Fighter Fined and Jailed.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Feb. 25.—Tommy Ryan, who recently defeated Danny Needham at Minneapolis, was fined $500 and costs yesterday by Judge Johnston for engaging in a fight with Bartlett last December in this state. Ryan was unable to pay, and lies in jail in default of payment.

Death of a Retired Navy Officer.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 25.—Capt. Charles Thomas, a retired officer of the United States navy, brother of ex-Governor Thomas, and for many years a companion of the late Admiral Porter, died last night. He entered the naval service in 1829.

Brutal Treatment From a Sea Captain.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—John O'Keefe, aged 42, employed as a steward on the steamer Helmsley, died at the hospital here yesterday, from the effects of injuries which the man alleged were inflicted by the captain of his ship. The man said he had been kicked by the captain, but did not say when or where it happened.

Five States in It.

SHIOUX CITY, Iowa, Feb. 25.—Farmers' Alliance men in Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska will hold a conference here, beginning Wednesday next. It is expected that 500 delegates will be in attendance. Various matters are to be discussed.
